EUCALYPTUS FRAUD EXPOSED.

The Department of Agriculture has found it necessary to deny false quotations, accredited to bulletins issued by that branch of the Government. For instance, "Circular 97," of the forest service, has been misrepresented as saying that California, in a few years, will be the only source of hardwood supply in the United States, because of the growth of the eucalyptus tree in that state.

In a letter just issued the department experts are quoted as saying that there is promise of considerable success in the cultivation of eucalyptus trees in many parts of California, but estimates of profits and of growth have been attributed to the department which are unauthorized. There are many uncertainties connected with eucalyptus culture, the government experts say, which the investor should take into account.

In some cases statements falsely attributed to the forest service in advertising matter have been corrected when attention was called to the facts, but not before the misstatements had been widely circulated.

Secretary Wilson says he does not intend to allow the name of his department to be used as a means of victimizing the public, and that in future any concern which attributes to the forest service unauthorized statements may expect the statements to be publicly disavowed.

COMET DECLARED TO BE DANGEROUS.

The astronomers, as though conspiring to make life miserable for the rest of humanity, have decided that the tail of Halley's comet contains large amounts of cyanogen gas and that if the earth speeds through the tail on May 19, the cyanogen gas in union with the hydrogen of the air will form hydro-cyanic gas, the most deadly poison known to science.

So after all, the end is not to be by fire! We are to die like bugs fed on formaldehyde! What an inglorious ending!

But somehow we doubt the astronomers because we have more faith in the orderly destiny of the planetary system, including the earth and the people on it.

The spectrum shows the lines of cyanogen gas, the experts say, and the spectrum is said to be reliable, but it is yet to be proved that what the lines of the prism tell us of distant heavenly bodies is absolutely reliable. The composition of other worlds has been arrived at by these spectrum analyses, and this visit of Halley's comet may help to upset some of the theories elaborately evolved from the spectroscopy and once more invite a guess as to the elements which enter into the formation of planets and nebulae.

Our opinion is the presence of the comet on May 19 will be accompanied by no unusual disturbance.

SUGAR BEET OUTLOOK.

The Amalgamated Sugar Company has been planning to double the capacity of the Ogden factory, the machinery to be installed in time for this year's sugar campaign, but, we understand, there is a small cloud on the sugar beet horizon which is causing the local sugar people to hesitate. There is an agitation among farmers in some parts of this district, which has for its object the making of demands which the factory people are not disposed to accede to, and while this uncertainty exists the Amalgamated officials are debating whether to prepare for an increased tonnage at their local plant or to allow things to drift.

We trust that the farmers and the factory people soon will come to an amicable understanding for, it is said, that if the present unsettled condition is not overcome within six weeks, then it will be too late to order the machinery in time for doubling the capacity of the sugar factory this fall, and, as a result, the beet acreage will have to be restricted, instead of enlarged, and Ogden, in common with the farmers, factory people and all concerned, will suffer a loss.

The beet industry is the distributor of more money than any other single industry in this part of Utah, and it would be a source of regret if it were crippled by unwise counsel.

Not a Sin.

To Pere Monsabre, the distinguished French preacher, there came one Sabbath, after mass, a lady who insisted that she must see him on an affair of great importance. It was a matter of conscience, and she explained that she was most seriously disturbed. In fact, she was sadly given to vanity. That very morning, she confessed, she had looked into the glass and had yielded to the temptation of thinking herself pretty.

Pere Monsabre looked at her. "It that all, my daughter?" "That is all."

SOCIETY

DANCING PARTY.

Between three hundred and fifty and four hundred guests were entertained at one of the most brilliant balls of the season given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack Browning and Mr. and Mrs. Smith at the Congress Dancing academy.

The reception room and dancing hall were beautifully decorated with palms and flowers, the reception room arranged in jungle style, presenting a most enchanting scene under the pretty, soft shading of the Japanese lights, dark green seats being artistically arranged among the palms.

An enlarged orchestra provided a fine musical program selected from the most popular dance music. Punch was served to the guests by a bevy of fair young ladies, and daintily prepared refreshments were served to the guests during the evening under the direction of a local caterer.

Connellsville, Pa., Feb. 9.—Penniless, but with stock certificates purporting to be worth $12,000, a man who says he is Thomas A. Hornback of San Jose, Cal., is being held here. He was caught riding a "blind baggage" on a Baltimore & Ohio train. Hornback had every pocket filled

UNION PACIFIC SCHOOL

A highly original, interesting and important work has just been inaugurated by the educational bureau of the Union Pacific railroad at Omaha. A school was opened January 15 for giving personal instruction to applicants for positions as student helpers at stations. It does not teach telegraphy, but instead, draws its material from graduates of telegraph schools.

Any man who can pass the physical requirements, has a common school education, and can receive twenty-five words per minute is eligible for admission to this station school, which is completely equipped at a model station. All of the main-line telegraph wires are cut into this school, which is a regular railway and Western Union telegraph office. It has the furniture of a local office, all forms, way-bills, tickets, baggage checks, etc.

The instructor of this school was selected from the company's entire list of agents. His name is P. S. Rane, and he has been agent for the company at Wilson, Kas., for twenty-five years, and holds one of the company's medals for a perfect station, awarded during one of the annual inspections. All student helpers for the system will be furnished from this school.

The course will consist of about four to six weeks' work, and under certain conditions students are paid the regular station helper's wage while completing their studies in this school. It is not the intention to try to teach the student the entire subject of station work, but the school has proven ability to teach them how to make a proper bill of lading, how to way-bill goods, make out expense bills and do preliminary work of this nature which will make them valuable and real helpers from the start.

The idea of the school, briefly, is to educate these young men at the expense of one certain department, rather than to educate them at the expense of the entire organization, because a new man of this kind going out and making mistakes through ignorance, as he is bound to do under the old plan, makes trouble through the entire organization in causing freight to go astray, reports to become mixed or unintelligible, etc.

GRAFTER IS SWINDLING MANY WOMEN IN UTAH

Women in Utah are being swindled and annoyed by a clever grafter.

The grafter is a well-dressed and an affable person who, after ringing the doorbell of the house he has selected, and introducing himself as a representative of a Chicago firm engaged in the business of making life-sized natural-union enlargements of photographs, offers to give to the tenant the sample he is carrying.

All that he asks in return for the gift is that the tenant hang the picture on the wall of the home and tell those who see it, the name of the firm making it. He then asks if there is not a picture about the house that the tenant would like to have enlarged and tinted with water colors so that it will appear life-like. He immediately assures the tenant there is no cost connected with the scheme and that his firm is doing the work and giving away the completed picture for the advertising value the picture will have.

The fact that there is no expense connected with the deal is impressed upon the victim time after time in the man's statement, and no papers are presented for signature. The grafter then makes a request for a picture which is usually forthcoming after which he departs with the statement that he will return with the proof in about ten days.

Returning with the proof, but without the original picture, he asks the tenant what sort of frame is wished, and when he is told that no frame is wanted, he promises to leave the original picture. Before he leaves the house he impresses upon the victim that the proof will be finished, as it is his property, and he then tells the tenant that he will sell the finished picture to some saloon in the city where it will be a source of advertising to the firm he is representing.

By this time the woman, who, as a rule he always selects for the swindle, is more than willing to buy any frame he may show. In case the order for the frame is not forthcoming he departs but never returns the original picture. He leaves no address, leaving the excuse that his firm has not as yet established permanent quarters in this city.

The grafter is described by his victims, who, on account of the notoriety, refuse to give their names to the police, as a well-dressed, tall and slender man, with dark curly hair, dark eyes and smooth-shaven.

JEWISH IMMIGRATION MAY MAKE HOMES IN UTAH

Members of the Salt Lake Real Estate association will gather at the Commercial club for the regular fortnightly meeting of the association. The principal topic for consideration will be a request for co-operation received by the association from the Jewish Immigration Bureau of Galveston, Tex. This bureau has funds at its disposal from a bequest of the late Baron Hirsch and it seeks to place immigrants in localities where, with slight assistance from the bureau, they can become financially independent. Those interested in the bureau say that the Jewish immigrants make desirable settlers and good citizens, and they never become public charges.

The question of co-operating with the bureau will be discussed thoroughly and some plan of action decided upon. It is probable that Rabbi Charles J. Freund will explain the purposes of the bureau to the real estate men.

TECOMA CAMP IS YIELDING RICH ORE

Driving 15 feet from the bottom of an old inclined shaft in the Mineral Mountain mine, at Tecoma, Nev., has resulted in taking out a half-carload of ore, much of which runs as high as $130 a ton, according to C. F. Whipple, who arrived in the city yesterday from camp. Taking out of the rich ore is being continued and it is the intention to send a shipment to the smelter very soon.

The Mineral Mountain is one of the group of mines in Lucin district owned by T. C. Olegg and associates of this city and Idaho, others being the Little Butte and Tecoma. The Mineral Mountain and Tecoma are old mines, on the main line of the district, although the shaft from which Mr. Whipple is taking the rich ore was only 52 feet deep when he started working in it.

Lessees on the Salt Lake Copper Company's property are taking out and shipping ore at the rate of $25,000 a month, Mr. Whipple says, with 20 men employed. That the district has a great future as well as a brilliant past he has no doubt. As an evidence of this he is displaying a handsome gold medal which he has just received from the Four-State Fair association of Ogden for the best display of ores.

Mr. Whipple had at last year's fair a display of ores all from the Lucin district, which captured the grand prize in competition with mining camps of four states.

FIRE AT MALAD CITY DOES MUCH DAMAGE

Malad City, Ida., Feb. 9.—Malad is on fire, but there is every reason to believe that the town will be saved. At 1 o'clock this morning the situation was hopeful for a cessation of the flames. If the firemen lose control of the situation, however, Ogden will be asked to send fire-fighting apparatus on a special train.

Thus far the chief loss has been the burning of Harding's restaurant. The loss here is estimated at about $5,000 with $2,000 of insurance. Other minor losses have occurred.

The fire was discovered at about 10 o'clock Tuesday night in the rooms over the restaurant. The origin is not known.

Theodore Lorch and his company of actors from Salt Lake were presenting "St. Elmo" in the opera house at the time, and when the fire alarm was given the audience rushed out in great confusion. No one was injured in the crush, however.

The theatrical people had accommodations in the rooms over the Harding restaurant, and lost some of their wearing apparel. Their loss, however, will not be heavy.

TWO PRISONERS ESCAPE FROM OHIO PENITENTIARY

Columbus, O., Feb. 9.—Fred Connors, a safe blower, up for fifteen years from Lucas county, and Willis Williams, a forger, from Lucas county, whose one-year terms would have expired next October, escaped from the Ohio penitentiary early today and probably got out of town on a freight train. They sawed a bolt from the fastening of the door of their cell and escaped over the wall just before daylight.
